'Suicide's' Wife Bares Love Triangle

GAVE MALDEN HUSBAND TO FIRST SWEETHEART; SHE DOUBTS HIS DEATH

A wife's story of how, caught in a love triangle when she learned her husband's affections had flamed anew for an old sweetheart, she sacrificed her own happiness in surrender, and of how she has been a "silent sufferer" since, was told today by Mrs. Harvey E. Settles, attractive Malden mother, and wife of the man whose disappearance has given the police of two States a puzzling mystery.

While the police at Bristol, R. I., though doubting the good faith of Settles' suicide note, are searching Narragansett Bay waters for his body, a wide land search is also being made for the missing husband.

The Briston police received a telephone call from Mrs. Settles today saying she would go to Bristol to claim her husband's effects. Chief Kavanaugh of Bristol said he had learned today that Settles rushed a check for $400 in Boston Wednesday.

There is no charge against Settles.

RUTH SNYDER ESCAPES CHAIR UNTIL FALL

New York, May 27 (I.N.S.).—Ruth Brown Snyder's executing, scheduled for the week of June 20, was automatically stayed until Fall when notice for an appeal was filed in Queens County Court. Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray are in the deathhouse in Sing Sing awaiting execution for the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder.

Grounds for Mrs. Snyder's appeal for a new trial were not contained in the notice filed today. These will be given in briefs submitted to the court of appeals by her attorneys.

Mrs. Snyder will sign over her rights to her husband's insurance of $102,000 to her nine-year-old daughter, Lorraine. Mrs. Snyder remains the beneficiary until the Court of Appeals passes on her fate.

AIR HERO DARES DEATH STAGING STUNTS AFTER PLANE RIDE OVER PARIS

Paris, May 27 (A.P.).—Captain Lindbergh flew over Paris in a French plane for more than an hour today.

During the flight he paid homage to France's unknown soldier, flying over the tomb in the Arc de Triomphe in graceful curves and descended at one time to within about 150 feet of the hallowed spot.

When he returned to the air port at Le Bourget after his flight over Paris, Captain Lindbergh went through a series of aerial acrobatics that delighted military aviators gathered to watch him. One of the stunts was a sham aerial battle with 4 planes piloted by Sergeant De Troyat, who had followed him on his flight.

In the course of his hour day Captain Lindbergh found time to visit the American Church of the Holy Trinity and leave a wreath as a simple tribute to the American aviators who gave their lives in the great war.

The wreath bes under the insignia of the Aviation Corps Memorial in the church, and bears a card saying:

"To the memory of the aviators who died in the great war.

"Charles Lindbergh."

BELMONT HEIRESS TO BE GRANTED FREEDOM

Miss Elsie M. P. Morrell, Belmont heiress, who was committed to McLean Hospital at Waverley shortly after her arrest for pointing a revolver at a Springfield motorcycle policeman, won her fight for freedom today in the Supreme Court.

Supreme Court Justice Braley told Miss Morrell, who was before him on a writ of habeas corpus, he considered her mentally responsible and would order her release on June 30, if she would remain at the hospital for treatment until that date.

He said he recommended this treatment in view of depression to which she is subject. His decision that she was mentally responsible,

SOVIET HITS BACK AT BRITAIN IN TRADE BAN

Moscow, May 27 (I.N.S.).—The Soviets have dealt their first blow in retaliation for the British action in breaking relations with Russia. The government shipping trust today issued orders to all Soviet ships to boycott English ports and cargoes.

"The United States trading technique is superior to the English, and orders extended to England are now being given to America, particularly orders for textile machinery," said M. Antorg, chairman of the government shipping trust today.

London, May 27 (A.P.).—A note severing relations between Soviet and British governments was delivered at Chesham House, the Soviet Legation, today. The note requests the official Soviet representatives to leave, and specifies who of the others will be allowed to remain to wind up the affairs of Arcos, Ltd., the Russian trading organization.

The British diplomatic mission in Moscow will be recalled immediately, Chesham House announced that

The royal palace at Brussels where the naive hero of the sky will be the honored guest of the potentate of the Belgians. Literally, the world is at the feet of the youth whose courage and skill took him across in one daring hop. He is anxiously awaited in the Belgian capital but plans to be there only one day. He must be on his way.

NEXT ROYAL HOST
King George V. of England, who will be the second royal ruler to shower honors upon the Missourian, unknown a month ago.

WHERE ENGLAND WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO HIM
Buckingham Palace, where Lindbergh will be a guest, to be feted by a King, a Queen, the Prince of Wales and hundreds of lesser nobles. From here, the non-stop flying hero probably will go to Sweden. LINDBERGH DARES DEATH IN STUNT FLYING OVER PARIS little ceremony, showed the aviator through the church, one of the most beautiful of the American edifices in Europe.

His flight early in the morning was carried out without knowledge of the general public, and few who saw the plane over Paris guessed that the ocean-hopping hero was again happy in his own element.

The flier was the guest of Colonel Poly-Marchetti, commandant of the 34th Regiment of Aviation, who furnished him with one of the newest models of 450-horsepower military scout plane. It was the first time Lindbergh had flown in this type of plane, yet he made a perfect ascent and landing, winning the admiration of everyone who watched him at the controls.

After landing he went to his own "hus" to make a careful inspection and give some suggestions to the mechanics getting it in shape for tomorrow's air try to Brussels.

Captain Lindbergh went to Le Bourget in an embassy car, accompanied only by Brigadier-General W. W. Harts, military attache. He wore a gray shirt and aviator's breeches. He seemed absolutely like a boy at play—happy both over the pleasure of flying and at getting a little respite from formalities and attention by crowds.

Pilot Lindbergh displayed his remarkable familiarity with aircraft when the airdrome officers began showing him the mechanism and controls of the French plane. He needed little explanation and took off, handling the machine as if he had spent his life in this new model, which he had never seen before.

During his air stunts over the military field before landing, he simply amazed the little group of experts watching him.

Although all of them are expert pilots, some commented that his acrobatics and aerial flip-flops were frightening in their daring.

During his flight he violated the city ordinances and military regulations by flying low, but he has a military escort in another monoplane, and at any rate no one had the least objection to his doing as he chose.

After breakfast he went shopping. He would have hardly ventured to visit the stores if the people generally knew that he was going out, for crowds would soon block his way, but he had no "official" program this morning, and his flight and shopping trip were unheralded.

He looked around for presents for his mother and friends back home, but exactly what he did about the "something from Paris" that he must take home he did not say.

RECORD WORK ON BUST.

One of the things he had to do today was to have his picture taken as a sort of official photograph. He is also being sculptured. The sculptor Gourset has modelled a miniature bust of him with the base extended in the form of an ash tray—although Lindbergh does not smoke.

Sach De Paris, a black-and-white artist who also handles clay, likewise is working on a bust which he plans to complete in thirty-three and one-half hours, the time required for Lindbergh's New York-to-Paris flight.

Lindbergh returned to the Embassy only an hour before he was due to leave for a luncheon given by M. Painleve at the Ministry of War. He seemed to have enjoyed his morning off and to have recovered from the fatigue of yesterday's hard round of ceremonies.

The association of war mutilated, known as the "Broken Mugs," is organizing benefits to raise a fund for the families of Captains Dungesser and Coli, missing French trans-Atlantic aviators, and Ambassador Herrick, who is a member of the honorary committee in Paris, has promised that Captain Lindbergh will appear at a gala performance to be given June 10.

Lindbergh and the ambassador left the embassy for the Painleve luncheon a little late. It was the first time they had been tardy during the week's strenuous ceremonies. The usual crowd was on hand to wave and cheer.

HONORED BY NOTABLES.

Lindbergh went to the luncheon attired in another new Paris-made suit, of dark color with a faintly perceptible stripe of blue.

Among the distinguished guests whom the War Minister had assembled to honor the aviator were General Gouraud, Marshal Foch and most of the French general

"Lindy" Advertises to Find His Lost "Lucky" Helmet

Paris, May 27 (I.N.S.)—"Lost" advertisements bearing the name of Charles A. Lindbergh are appearing in the Paris newspapers.

While flying over Paris early today Captain Lindbergh lost the flying helmet which he wore when he flew across the Atlantic. He has placed advertisements in the newspapers in an effort to regain the helmet, which he regards as something of a talisman.

he said, was based on her answers to his questions.

The girl brought up the question of a $3,000 diamond ring which she said she was obliged to leave in Springfield and asked Judge Braley if she could get it back. Attorney Charles Rogerson, her temporary guardian, explained it is in the Third National Bank in that city where it is held as security for expenses in obtaining bail for her.

After the Springfield incident, which occurred while Miss Morrell was on a motor trip, she was committed to McLean Hospital for 35 days by Judge Robert Walcott in East Cambridge district court. When this period ended, she was recommitted for an indefinite period.

Continuing her fight, she filed her now successful application for freedom in the Supreme Court. Miss Morrell, who is twenty-six years old, was wearing expensive jewelry at the time of her arrest in Springfield, and later it was brought out in court she frequently stayed at Boston hotels and was lavish in entertaining the employes.

the German embassy had agreed to look after the Soviets' interests here as part of a system of winding up diplomatic affairs which will require some months. It has not been decided who shall take charge of British interests in Moscow.

Premier Baldwin, addressing a mass meeting of Women Unionists in Albert Hall today, said:

"Our rupture of diplomatic relations does not mean or imply war against Russia. It means we do not intend to have any further political dealings with Moscow, but are wholly in favor of legitimate trade between the two countries.

"Our decision was not the result of a despaired plot to get up a world combination against Russia. On the contrary, we refrained for a long time from breaking with Moscow out of consideration for our continental allies and friends.

"But Soviet Russia made it impossible for us to retain that attitude by their refusal to listen to our repeated warnings."

Tokyo, May 27 (A.P.)—Dispatches from Harbin to the vernacular newspapers say the Soviet military commissar has ordered the mobilization of troops along the Far Eastern frontiers, which is interpreted in some Soviet quarters as a preliminary to Anglo-Soviet hostilities.

BAUER BEHIND BARS; IT WAS CELL NO. 13

Mayor Bauer of Lynn was locked up at Lynn police headquarters today and for a time was an occupant of Cell 13.

Chief Thomas M. Burckes was locked in with the Mayor when the cell room door slammed behind them and the chief's key failed to work on the lock.

An inspection of improvements in the police station was being made by the Mayor.

'Lindy' Is Offered 'Better Job' by Old Employers

New York, May 27 (A.P.)—Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, the air mail pilot who became an international celebrity overnight, has been offered a better job by his old employers.

Major William B. Robertson, president of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation of St. Louis, who employed Lindbergh as chief pilot on the St. Louis-Chicago route, said his company had cabled Lindbergh to continue to fly for them when he comes back to America.

He said Lindbergh would be offered a position as officer in charge of an aerial transportation service between St. Louis and New York.

ZIEGFELD 'LOST' $100,000

White Plains, N. Y., May 27 (A.P.)—Allegation that Florenz Ziegfeld, revue producer, is without means to meet obligations was made in an affidavit filed in Supreme Court today by Edward Royce, stage director, who filed the affidavit in conjunction with his suit to connect 1 per cent. of the gross receipts of "Rio Rita," Ziegfeld's latest revue.

The affidavit also alleged that Ziegfeld for two years had failed to meet notes and that the producer lost $100,000 in a poker game in Florida last year.

Royce asked the court to appoint a receiver. Royce avowed Ziegfeld owes more than $200,000 and has no tangible assets.

Ziegfeld denied Royce's allegations and asked Supreme Court Justice Seeger to preclude the affidavit on the ground that it contains "scurrilous, scandalous, libelous and grossly untrue falsehoods."

RIOT SQUAD IN LIEU OF PRAYER FOR PEACE

Washington, May 27 (A.P.)—A street fight in front of the Eastern Presbyterian Church among its members who had assembled to consider asking the resignation of their pastor, was quelled by a riot squad. One man was slightly injured in the fighting and two were arrested.

the Chamber for luncheon. Mayor Nichols, Atty.-Gen. A. K. Reading, representing the Governor, welcomed the fliers there and received the goodwill messages they had brought for them. Andrew J. Peters was master of ceremonies.

On his arrival at the airport, where once he was commander, Dargue said: "There is a great improvement here, but I hope soon there will be even more.

"I should like to see the port improved so that it could handle heavy air traffic and be a real factor in commercial air projects.

"It will be necessary to improve the port so that planes can land anywhere here."

With other army fliers, Major Dargue successfully completed an 18,000-mile flight, during which he visited many South American countries, carrying goodwill messages to Chambers of Commerce.

"We were given a hearty reception wherever we landed," he said today.

Speaking of Captain Lindbergh's feat, Dargue said: "A wonderful achievement and one that has done more for aviation than anything else."

Mayor Nichols, in a brief speech, said the Boston airport could be developed to handle most of the trans-Atlantic air travel as the nearest port to Europe. Among the many guests at the luncheon were Colonel Sherwood A. Cheney and Rear Admiral Philip Andrews.

On his way to Boston, Dargue flew over Springfield and Worcester, where hundreds of spectators craned their necks to wave welcome and factory whistles blew. When he leaves Boston tomorrow he will go to New Bedford, Fall River, Providence and Attleboro.

2 POLICE PROBATIONERS LOSE JOBS AFTER FRACAS

An early morning escapade, in which they amused themselves by throwing things about in a Common wealth avenue lunch room and punching a bus boy, caused two probationary policemen loss of their jobs and $50 fines today.

Albert F. Gould and Charles L. Moore, until two days ago attached to station 10, were arraigned in Brighton Court charged with assault and battery on George F. Warren, the bus boy. Both were found guilty. They appealed the fines and were held in $300 each.

Jug a Jug o' Wine and Five Zigzaggers In a Hurry

A loaf along, a jug o' wine—and wow! — five youths were clutched by the Back Bay police today in a very zigzag manner, and were out of their automobile and in nice cool cells almost before they knew what had happened.

Patrolman Davenport captured the five single-handed, but his chief difficulty was in persuading them to lean toward each other for mutual support in an upright or standing position.

When Patrolman Davenport stepped off the sidewalk on Beacon street and ordered the car to halt, it rumbled right by so he fired three shots in the air.

The driver stopped so quick he almost backed up. The five, together with a jug of wine found in the car, were taken to the station. Police are checking ownership of the car, understood to be established somewhere in Quincy. They are held on suspicion.

13 BOTTLES ON SUGAR SHIP REALLY UNLUCKY

The mystic symbol "13" proved unlucky for the crew of the sugar boat Glendoyle when the customs special duty squad swooped down on the ship and took that number of bottles back to Uncle Sam's cache with them. The Glendoyle arrived from Banes, Cuba, with a consignment to the Revere Sugar Refinery. The liquor, consisting of Bacardi rum and assorted whiskey, was found concealed in hiding places about the ship.

PROBE FIRE HAZARD IN SOMERVILLE SCHOOLS

The fire hazard in the public schools of Somerville is to be investigated by the joint committees of public safety and public property of the Somerville Board of Aldermen, following unanimous adoption of a resolution providing for the probe, passed by the Aldermen today. The committees is to report its findings in June.

GIRL INJURED SEVERELY IN FALL IN SUBWAY

While alighting from a trolley car at Haymarket square subway station, today, Catherine Doherty, 15 of No. 140 Chelsea street, Charlestown, fell to the platform, suffering severe lacerations and a possible fracture of the skull. Her name is on the danger list at Haymarket Relief Hospital.

HARVARD HEAD JOINS SACCO CONFERENCE

Declaring he believed Sacco and Vanzetti were "framed" and convicted because they were radicals, Congressman Victor Berger of Wisconsin, only Socialist Party representative in Congress, urged Governor Fuller today to set them free.

"Roosevelt was a radical in 1912, Bryan was a radical at times in his career, and if they are hanging radicals, they would have had to hang them," said Berger, whose visit at the State House was brief.

He told Governor Fuller that there was an opportunity in this case to render as famous a decision as did the late Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois, who pardoned some of the radicals convicted in the Haymarket bomb throwing in Chicago.

Another champion of the condemned pair, Georg Branting of Sweden, arrived in New York today from Stockholm. Branting, son of the famous Swedish Liberal, who was formerly Prime Minister of that country, will arrive in Boston Sunday.

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard and Howard Coonley, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, were closeted for several hours this afternoon with Governor Fuller. Lieutenant-Governor Allen and Attorney Joseph Wiggin in connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Adhering to his long-adopted policy of refusing to talk for publication, President Lowell refused to make any statement as he left the Governor.

With the Governor supposedly nearing the end of his investigation into the case, there was a sharp decrease today in the number of letters and petitions addressed to him regarding the decision he must soon make.

From workers in Amsterdam, Holland, came a message: "All over Europe the protest campaign is growing. We urgently demand the prevention of the execution and the reopening of the trial."

The Nelson A. Miles Camp, No. 36, Spanish War Veterans of Holyoke, with the camp's auxiliary, sent a letter of confidence in the Governor's judgment and honesty of purpose, and pledging support, whatever his decision may be.

The student body of Friends Seminary, New York city, sent a resolution which asked an inquiry into the case, "a thorough airing of the facts to determine whether or not these men shall have a retrial."

'QUEEN OF SOUP' TO WED

Elinor Dorrance of Philadelphia, daughter of the president of the Campbell Soup Co., whose engagement to Nathaniel P. Hill, Harvard graduate, announced today.

Law to Open Door for Her

WINS FREEDOM

Miss Elsie M. P. Morrell, Belmont heiress, who has been under commitment at the McLean Hospital, will be freed June 30, according to a Supreme Court ruling.

RICH DORRANCE GIRL IS WON BY HARVARD MAN

Camden, N. J., May 27.—Miss Elinor Dorrance, nineteen, society heiress, has given up peeling tomatoes in her father's soup factory for the purpose of wedding a Harvard graduate, Nathaniel P. Hill of Denver, Col.

The girl's father, Dr. John Tyompson Dorrance, is the millionaire head of the Campbell Soup Company. Recently his daughter startled Philadelphia and New York society by accepting a place peeling tomatoes in her father's factory for a salary of 31 cents an hour.

At that time the girl announced she intended making her father's business her life's work.

Cupid apparently shunted the society girl from her plan, for Dr. Dorrance and his wife, who are with her in Paris, announced the engagement in a cablegram today. The Dorrances are expected to return to this country within a few days.

Hill, who is thirty-two and the son of the late Crawford Hill of Denver, sailed for Europe recently. Apparently he wooed and won the tomato-peeling heiress on the Continent. No date for the wedding has been announced.

KILLS HIMSELF OVER GRIEF FOR WIFE

Waldo E. Pratt, for twenty-three years a clerk in a Boston bank, was found dead in the cellar of his home on Prospect street, Norwood, today, with his throat cut.

The body was found by Pratt's young daughter, who searched the house for the father when he failed to make his customary preparation to go to his work.

Pratt, who was forty-three years of age, was heart-broken over the condition of his wife, who two weeks ago was removed to a sanitarium. He brooded over this fact and became morose.

Immediately after the death of the clerk was reported to the bank, auditors from the State Banking Department went over his books and accounts and found them in perfect condition.

The body was viewed by Dr. Andrew H. Hodgdon, medical examiner of Dedham, after which it was turned over to an undertaker. No report was made to the Norwood police of the death, but Chief of Police Sullivan started an independent investigation shortly after noon.

NEWTON FOOD DEALER IS CLEARED OF ARSON

David Scleson, Newton meat and provision dealer, was found not guilty of arson today in a sealed verdict returned in Middlesex Superior Court. He was charged with setting fire to the block in which his store is located. The fire caused $3,000 damage.

Holmes Goes on Trial by Church Board

New Haven, Ct., May 27.—The Rev. Guy L. Holmes, unfrocked Methodist minister who was driven from his pastorate in New Bedford, Mass., by the charges of Antoinette Fortin, pretty tea room waitress, today fought to regain his clerical robes.

Leaders of the Methodist church from three conferences gathered here to hear the minister's appeal for reinstatement.

Regardless of what action they take, Holmes again must undergo trial in Boston on the charges brought by the waitress. More than a month ago a jury which sat in the minister's case was unable to reach a verdict and a retrial has been ordered by District Attorney Foley.

CLERGYMEN ON TRIAL BOARD

Dr. J. I. Bartholomew and Dr. W. I. Ward today appeared before the church trial board as counsel for Holmes. Among those who listened to the minister's appeal and who will finally pass on his case were the Rev. Charles Jeffries of Melrose, Mass.; the Rev. O. C. Poland and the Rev. A. A. Flinan, representing the New England and New England Southern conferences of the Methodist Church, and the Rev. W. B. Locke, T. E. Cramer, E. S. Kaslis and A. E. Draper, all of New Hampshire; the Rev. F. H. Hammond of Northport, L. I.; the Rev. Saul O. Curtice of West Haven, Ct.; the Rev. W. H. Wakeman of Middletown, Ct., and the Rev. G. A. Martin and W. H. Bergwin of Brooklyn, representing the New York conference.

BISHOP WILL ANNOUNCE DECISION

The session was presided over by Bishop Luther B. Wilson, who will announce the decision that the clerical trial board reaches.

Holmes, when tried in Boston, was accused of being the father of a child by the waitress, of violating the true name law of Massachusetts by registering with the girl at a Back Bay hotel under an assumed name and of a statutory offence.

He presented an alibi to prove that he was not at the Back Bay hotel with the waitress at the time charged in the indictment.

PREDICT LIGHT FROST IN HUB TONIGHT

A light frost is predicted for tonight.

With twenty-one rainy days to date and an official prediction of more precipitation over the Decoration Day week-end, the current month bids fair to break the record of May, 1858, which stands on the Weather Bureau books with a total of 22 days of rain.

The brief flood of sunshine and wave of warmth, which flitted across New England yesterday, disappeared early today to be followed by a storm area settled in Eastport, Me., and a spell of cool weather oozing eastward from the lake region.

Temperatures fell 10 to 18 degrees in northern New England through the night, registering a general mark well below 50 above today, a hint for weekend tourists to carry blankets on Decoration Day trips.

Sweeping eastward from the Rockies on intensive and energetic storm pressure unsettled weather here by Sunday, and that in turn is followed by a disturbance of a similar nature.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair and somewhat cooler tonight; Saturday fair, with slowly rising temperatures; moderate northerly winds, becoming northeasterly Saturday.

3 GET 6 MONTHS FOR "STOOL PIGEON" ASSAULT

Charged with assault and battery, three East Boston youths were sentenced to six months in the House of Correction when arraigned in district court today. They were Edward Shane, George E. Doherty and Frank Melindy. They appealed and were held in $500. According to the testimony, the trio approached Dennis Fitzgerald of Saratoga street, and after accusing him of being a "stool pigeon," beat him up.

1,700 GRAVES IN BOSTON BEING DECORATED

Seventeen hundred graves of veterans in 175 cemeteries in Boston and vicinity are being decorated by veteran organizations with flags and wreaths in preparations for Memorial Day exercises. To help defray the expense the city treasury has placed $15,000 at the disposal of the workers.

There are 11,258 G. A. R. graves, 1,050 Spanish War graves, 2,002 American Legion, 480 Veterans of Foreign Wars marked up on the city list, in addition to the Kearsarge Association of Naval Veterans and three garrisons of the Army and Navy Union.

On Memorial Day each organization will assemble at its headquarters at 9 o'clock in the morning and proceed by special cars to the cemeteries and monuments where the exercises will be held. After a memorial portion and the sounding of "Taps," they will return to their headquarters for luncheon to be served by the women of their auxiliaries.

46,000 Fallen Buddies Brought Home to Rest

The "buddies" that were left behind in the poppy fields of Flanders when the American Expeditionary Forces returned from France in 1919 are slowly trekking home.

When General Pershing and the last of the doughboys sailed from Brest and St. Nazaire, they left 71,771 of their comrades, glorious in death, beneath the poppy fields. According to a statement made today by the Graves Registration Service of the Quartermasters' Corps of the Army, 46,234 of America's fallen heroes have come home to rest in the soil from which they sprang in 1917 to answer their country's call.

Only 14 per cent of the nation's heroes rest in national cemeteries. The remainder are in the private burying plots of their families.

SLAYER OF MOTHER ADJUDGED INSANE

Providence, May 27 (A.P.).—Preston H. Boll, accused of the murder of his mother, Mrs. Ella M. Gullivan on March 31, was found not guilty by a jury in Superior Court here today on the grounds of insanity. The woman's body was found nearly decapitated and containing three knife wounds.

12 INJURED AT $15,000 FIRE ON WHARF

Twelve firemen were injured by flying glass, and Boston's Italian fishing fleet was threatened with destruction early today, when fire, necessitating four alarms, destroyed Commercial Wharf on Atlantic avenue. The blaze, firemen said, was one of the most dangerous that has visited the waterfront in several years. Damage was estimated at more than $15,000.

William Coughlin of Engine 24 and Thomas Wise of Ladder 2 were the most seriously injured of the firemen. Both suffered deep gashes on the hands and were kept out of action for an hour, later returning despite their injuries. Ten other firemen were also treated. A temporary first-aid station was set up by Charles A. Hankin, manager of the Sommers Transfer Company, one of the heavy losers of the fire.

The cause of the fire is undetermined. The blaze, police believe, started in the office of the Port Newark Steamship Company. Patrolman Michael Deneby of the Hanover street station sounded an alarm from Box 1237, at Long Wharf. A moment later a passing citizen sighted the flames and rang an alarm from Box 1246 at Commercial Wharf. When Deputy Chief Henry Powers arrived he ordered a third alarm sounded from the first box pulled. This brought apparatus from all the Intown stations as well as two fire boats.

So rapidly did the fire spread that the wharf offices were wrapped in flames when firemen arrived on the first alarm and had spread to a long shipping section facing the harbor. The spectacle drew thousands of sightseers and a heavy detail of police was kept busy keeping streets clear.

The steamship Massasoit, tied up at Commercial Wharf for dismantling, was endangered several times but the guns of Firebouts 44 and 31 saved it. Likewise about 100 fishing smacks of the Italian fishing fleet, tied up between Commercial and Long wharves, were saved by the firebouts when flaming embers dropped among them.

The destroyed offices were at Nos. 84 to 90 Commercial Wharf. They were occupied by the Port Newark S. S. Co., Herbert Webster Trucking Co., Puritan Trucking Co., Somers Transfer Co., J. R. Pounds Co., oil and rubber distributors; Beth Foods Co. and William R. Underwood Co., canned goods storage.

Fire Chief Daniel F. Sennott arrived on the third alarm as did Fire Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman. The Salvation Army "ration wagon" was on the scene in the early stages of the fire and distributed refreshments to the firemen.

Commercial Wharf is surrounded by wooden structures and for a time, it appeared as though the district was doomed.

BABSON TELLS WHY MEN DON'T GO TO CHURCH

Omaha, Neb., May 27 (A.P.).—Ministers, who in sermons delve into subjects with which they are not familiar were taken to task today by Roger W. Babson, lay delegate to the National Council of the Congregational Church.

Mr. Babson suggested what he believed to be the most important reasons more laymen do not attend church.

"More laymen would go to church if they were sure of getting real help and inspiration," he said. "The church, however, does not satisfy the religious emotions of the layman. He does not care to go to church to hear discussions on the League of Nations, prohibition or other subjects.

"Laymen go to church to worship and get wisdom, courage and inspiration. If ministers would confine themselves to these things, their churches would be crowded.

BUSY CORNER TIED UP BY BLAZE ON TRUCK

Traffic was tied up today during the noon-hour rush at the Junction of Washington and Winter streets, Boston's busiest spot, while the Boston Fire Department extinguished a fire in an automobile truck loaded with charges.

CONFEDERATES OUT OF LINE MEMORIAL DAY

The "thin blue line" that will march through Boston's streets on Monday in observance of Memorial Day, for the first time in many years will have no gray uniform of the Confederacy in its small numbers.

Nat Poynts of No. 51 Norton street, Dorchester, who is proud of the fact that he was "one of Lee's men," will be unable to march in the Memorial Day parade this year. Time has taken its toll, and the veteran of veteran who valiantly carried on in his gray uniform at Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge—and who suffered the bitter pangs of defeat with Lee at Appomatox—will look at the Memorial Day procession from his easy chair, drawn to the front window of his home.

"The spirit is willing. I'd love to march with the boys again. But the flesh is weak. I can't make it," the veteran said today.

BELGIAN QUEEN COMFORTS MOTHER OF NUNGESSER

Paris, May 27 (A.P.).—While Paris was cheering itself hoarse in honor of Captain Lindbergh, Queen Elizabeth of Belgium was trying to bring a little comfort to the sorrowing heart of Captain Nungesser's mother.

The Queen climbed several flights of stairs to the top floor flat of Mme. Nungesser in Boulevard Temple and remained with her an hour.

Mme. Nungesser was deeply touched when the Queen with gentle grace urged her not to relinquish hope for her aviator son.

Queen Elizabeth recalled pleasant memories of the missing ace when he piloted a plane on the Ypres front during the war.

QUARTETTE TAKING PART IN DENISON HOUSE FETE

SURELY THOSE WHO DELIGHT in pageants set in beautiful garden backgrounds will be more than surfeited with June's two offerings. Dedham and thereabouts is fairly seething with interest in the Masque dated June 17 for Community House, and, of course, there's a furore for the affair on June 9, when the beautiful gardens at "Weld" of Mrs. Larz Anderson in Brookline are taken over for a fete day by professional women.

DEDHAM HAS A STATELY Colonial mansion, once belonging to the Haven family, with wide rolling lawns and a natural glade simply perfection itself for pageantry. For Leighton Rollins' Masque of the "Re-Creation," to be done there, Mrs. Joseph Courtney has taken some lines of the late and widely-beloved Josephine Preston Peabody and set them to music. The Younger Set, including Miss Dorothy Quincy Nource, Miss Betty Mathews, Miss Elinor Baker, Miss Elinor Williams and others, have parts in the Masque.

A CHORUS OF ONE HUNDRED voices adds musically to the occasion, as does also the orchestral aggregation that has delighted Bar Harborites at the Pot and Kettle Club. Dana Steveling's contribution to the Masque is a lovely Cinderella Ballet—and everyone who has watched her dance knows her grace and artistry. Mrs. F. Rollins Maxwell, who composes oftimes for the Vincent Club, is lending her talents. Altogether there is a richness of artistic wares to make a finished bit of outdoor pageantry.

AND NOT CONTENT WITH putting on a Masque all his own, Leighton Rollins is also the author of a Repertory Theatre episode for Pageant at "Weld" on June 9. Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, Jr., is the "Spirit of Repertory" in it, and that charming New Yorker, Miss Katharine Chapman Warren, comes up for the affair to read the prologue and wear a gorgeous gold picture gown. Miss Chapman is even now in town, I believe, the house guest of Miss Elizabeth Conklin.

JUST BEFORE MISS FRANCESCA BRAGGIOTTI and Braggiotti pere, entrained for the Far West there was a merry little farewell dinner staged for her by the Chester Rahrs. This charming dancer and her popular pater are to be in California the entire Summer, as they expect. I've no doubt the cinema bee is buzzing in the becoming bonnet of the fair Francesca, hence the Pacific Coast destination.

OTHER FESTIVITIES CONcerning the Braggiotti clan was Barthold Schlesinger's dinner in compliment to Ted Shawn, now making a Boston stay; and Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell's jolly house party at Wianno over the last week-end, when she took a group down, including her youthful daughter, Miss Nancy Hallowell, just immediately after the strenuousness of the "Review of Dance" and its two presentations. Miss Hallowell was one of the neophytes who flitted about the Repertory stage so delightfully.

THE AQUITANIA, DOCKING today in New York, has in her list of important passengers two Boston names. One is that of Francis Lee Higginson, of Boston and Hamilton, paternal parent of a most important debutante of the past season, Miss Joan Higginson. Another name is that of Mrs. Paul D. Rust, also parent to a debutante, the petite and attractive Miss Helen Rust, who has been so prominent in young set doings ever since she made her bow at a dance at the Somerset last December.

ALMOST WITHOUT NUMBER are the girls who today and tomorrow devote themselves to Denison House and its benefit at Cedar Hill. Miss Dalinda Dewson, Miss Eleanor H. Clark, Miss Margaret Watson and Miss Elsie de Normandie are a foursome who'll be on hand almost continuously. Mrs. Malcolm Lang and her helpers for Denison House count on a most successful two days, basing their hopes on the intense preliminary interest the affair has caused and huge sale of tickets, running well over a thousand.

Some of the government stores are expected to be opened Wednesday and others on June 15.

Residents of the Province may buy two cases at one time, Mr. Hanna said, although he did not indicate how often the maximum purchase might be made.

Oldest Commuter in N. Y. Dead; Traveled 650,000 Miles

Greenwich, Ct., May 27 (A.P.)—Henry Dayton, dean of New York insurance men, who commuted an estimated 650,000 miles between his home here and New York, where he was in business for 61 years, died here today.

For years Mr. Dayton, who would have been 93 years old September 10, had been the oldest commuter on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. He was born in Greenwich, but for 34 years lived in Greenwich Village, New York.

Forty-two years ago he bought a farm here and began his "travels" to and from the city. Part of the journey then was by horse car trains from Broadway and Canal to Thirty-fourth street and the rest of the way to Greenwich behind a locomotive.

LOVE TRIANGLE BARED IN NOTE

and no reason for wanting to find him other than to clear up the tangle of his love and to prove or disprove the threat of self-destruction in his farewell note, the authorities state.

Suspicion that money was involved grew out of the wording of Settles' note, found pinned in his abandoned auto, at Bristol, on the beach of Narragansett Bay. In the note he said he had gambled heavily and lost, and would now "pay the fiddler."

It took the womanly thought of the wife to solve this riddle in words. "What my husband did," said Mrs. Settles today, "was to gamble heavily with love—my love, the love of his two sons, my boys, Harold Edward, 13, and Robert, 8. He gambled—and he has lost, and now he will pay the fiddler perhaps by getting away from the clutches of his sweetheart.

"I think he has it in mind some day to return to his home."

The Malden home is on Wilson avenue. It is a home of refinement, showing the taste of a woman of education, and the sweet love of a mother. Mrs Settles is very attractive and about 29 years of age.

HAD TWO HOUSES.

It has become known that Settles had two homes—the one in Malden which he seldom visited, and then only to see his children, and a home on Hill road, at Framingham, where he had established himself after separating from his wife two years ago.

"I haven't the slightest idea that he has committed suicide," said Mrs. Settles. "My husband is in his thirty-sixth year, and is intelligent. Once he loved me, and this home. We were ideally happy.

"Then I learned he had fallen in love with a sweetheart that had been his love before I came into his life. She was a blonde—that was about all I ever knew. I never troubled myself to find out more. I never knew even her name.

"It was fourteen years ago that we married. The past two years for me have been days and hours of silent suffering. Even the bank thought he still lived here. I never told them anything different.

"I gave my husband up completely, because he had become consumed with the love for the girl. He wanted to go, so I let him go. I made no fight to get him back.

"Why? Because of my boys. I thought only of them, and their future. Their happiness and welfare is my sole lookout. Their lives must not be clouded by the wrecking of my love and my home happiness with my husband. I am living just for them. If this disappearance had not come, I should have gone on indefinitely, living quietly, devoting my whole being to my children.

"My husband came at intervals, not to see me, but to see the children. About two weeks ago he came the last time, and took away with him a bundle of photographs of the children and himself. We were friendly only in our relations—remember he was my husband, and the father of my two fine sons.

TRYING TO GET AWAY.

"I don't think I am wrong in saying he is trying to get away from the clutches of the girl who has been a millstone about his neck. Deserted suits and note and all are but parts of his plan to cover up his dropping out of sight.

"He gambled heavily, as he said—but it was with love, not money. And he lost—love, not money. And now he pays the fiddler, by surrendering the false love that lured him from his home here he will suffer. Perhaps it is his plan in time to come back."

Settles' note was as follows:

"To my family, friends, creditors, and employers: I have gambled heavily and lost. I am now about to pay the fiddler. It is my own fault. I, alone, am responsible for it, as I did it without the assistance of any one else. (signed) Harvey E. Settles."

Miss Mildred Dieter, formerly of Melrose and housekeeper for Settles at his Framingham residence, told the police that recently the bank employe had been "blue." She said on Monday he borrowed $400 from her brother, Dean Dieter, with whom he was in the real estate business in Framingham.

"Then he left, and we haven't seen him since," said Miss Dieter. "We are naturally anxious about him; but it is possible he has gone away with some girl he loved.

President Coolidge today paid tribute to the memory of Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor movement and who died at his home in Newton. Mrs. Clark received this message from the President:

"There will be mourning in every part of the religious world over the passing of Dr. Clark whose life was consecrated to the service of God. The Christian Endeavor Societies founded by him and now forming a union that girdles the globe will be an active and lasting memorial to his earnest and unselfish work. I knew him as a friend whose high character I respected and whose opinions I was always glad to have. 'LINDY' AMAZES FRENCH FLIERS BY HIS DARING STUNTS IN THE AIR

SKY HERO CIRCLES OVER PARIS IN PLANE WHILE CITY IS STILL AT BREAKFAST

staff, all in full uniform; Brigadier-General William W. Harts, military attache at the American embassy, and Major Burton K. Young, assistant military attache, also in full dress uniform; General John J. Pershing in a civilian coat and the Legion of Honor ribbon in his buttonhole, Gaston Menier, head of the aviation group in the Senate, and General Groud, president of the similar group in the Chamber.

Captain Georges Pelletier D'Oisy, the famous French flier, also was present, with Cabinet Ministers Barthou, Tardieu and Bokanowski and M. Laurent-Eynac.

Outside was the only member of the "I-Knew-Him-When Club." He is Simon Wardlin, a photographer of Little Falls, Minn., who has known Lindbergh since the age of three, when his family bought land from the flier's father.

GREETS HIS OLD FRIEND.

Lindbergh, in the midst of the throng of notables that crowded around him as he descended from the car, recognized his old friend as the photographer snapped him with a big newspaper camera, and took time to promise him a few minutes of his already crowded afternoon.

In a few minutes' talk with Wardlin, Lindbergh managed to learn something about most of his old friends in Little Falls. He signed a postcard to M. A. Nelson, another Little Falls photographer, who took pictures of him as a baby.

Another friend, however, missed seeing him only by a few minutes. This was Alice Magnenat, a French flier who for a time was an instructor at the aviation field in St. Louis and who taught Lindbergh a lot about handling a plane.

He had come all the way from the Riviera to see his old pupil, but got only a glimpse of him as he went up the steps of the War Ministry.

Military honors were rendered by a platoon of ten men and a corporal. As Lindbergh mounted the stairs to greet the distinguished company the crowd cheered again and again.

A "MESSENGER OF PEACE."

It seemed for a moment that the proceedings would have to be halted, Lindbergh managed to get inside, however, and the luncheon proceeded.

War Minister Painleve was almost lyric in his toast, which, translated into English by M. Franklin-Bouillon, lauded Lindbergh as "more a master of the air, more sure of his flight, than a condor or albatross"—a true bronze of the Latin race. "You have come from America to fight for France in the first days of the World War.

"You have," M. Painleve concluded, "realized an impossible dream and glorified the heroism of humanity to the dimension of the planets.

"You have thrown across the ocean between our two cities, between our two nations and between our two continents an invisible link that never more will be broken."

While the luncheon festivities were going on the huge crowd greatly increased outside the building.

The authorities had not expected such great attendance and extra police and troops of the Republican Guard were rushed there to maintain traffic. It was a good-natured, happy throng, however, with the one desire of paying tribute to the nation's new idol.

After the War Minister's luncheon Lindbergh went into the garden with his host and a number of the guests, including Marshal and pence for innumerable photographs with such notables as M. Painleve, General Pershing, General Gouraud and Marshal Foch.

SCENE IS COLORFUL.

SCENE IS COLORFUL.

The scene in front of the War Ministry's staff, with its many girl stenographers and clerks. The assemblage was given color by groups of all branches of the colonial military service, including Senegalese, Algerians, Annamites and white troops from Morocco.

Following the Painleve luncheon Lindbergh attended a vast reception at the residential palace of Paul Doumer, president of the French Senate.

There all Parliament and most of the other Parisian notables gathered to see and try to shake the hand of the noted New York Paris flier.

The crowd outside the home of the Senate President rivalled the great concourse which yesterday covered the air hero at the municipal reception at the Hotel de Ville.

M. Doumer greeted Lindbergh as "the new hero of aviation" who crossed the Atlantic "on wings that science and industry have given to man."

LIKE 'ANOTHER LAFAYETTE.'

"I will merely tell you," M. Doumer continued, "and it is no slight eulogy, that because of your courage, tenacity and physical endurance we regard you as a true brother of the heroic French aviators of the war and of their worthy comrades, the American fliers, in the front rank of whom we place the Lafayette Escadrille."

Ambassador Herrick responded, thanking M. Doumer and the members of the Senate "from the bottom of my heart for the honor done Captain Lindbergh and his exploit," which he characterized as having being as much "inspired as was the mission of Lafayette to America 150 years ago."

Lindbergh spoke only briefly, as usual. He traced the history and development of aviation from the first efforts of the Wright brothers through Blerlot's pioneer voyage across the English Channel, and concluded:

"A few days ago I flew from New York to Paris. That may not have advanced the cause of civilization, but I confidently predict that within ten years there will be regular air service across the Atlantic between America and Europe."

WILL AID AT BENEFIT.

This prediction from the flier whom Frenchmen have been hailing as "the world's leading pilot" was received with an outburst of enthusiasm.

Tonight there will be a gala benefit organized by the Aero Club for the relief of the families of those who have died for aviation. Lindbergh will be there and there are no tickets to be bought at any price.

Those interested in the philanthropic enterprise had only to announce "Lindbergh will attend," to produce a rush for tickets which ordinarily people have to be urged to buy.

Later in the day a reception held at the Ministry of Commerce was one of the most brilliant gatherings thus far held in the air hero's honor.

Most of the leading lights of Parisian society were there to pay him tribute.

Again he received an ovation from the throngs in the street as he entered the courtyard of the ministry, while the roofs of the surrounding buildings were packed with cheering spectators.

An extended air voyage is not on the immediate program of Captain Lindbergh, the flier remarked today.

His next flight will be a comparatively short one—from Paris to Brussels—tomorrow, and advices from the Belgian capital leave no doubt that another rousing reception awaits him there.

As soon as he lands he will be presented to King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal family, at the express invitation of the monarch.

Later there will be a banquet at the American Club, where Crown Prince Leopold will sit with the American hero.

He expects to fly to London from Brussels Sunday, and he is assured of another great reception. The plans, as learned here, call for a meeting with King George and functions at the British Aero Club and various American organizations, while there is certain to be a large crowd at the Croydon Airdrome when the aviator lands with an escort of air liners that will meet him at the coast.

$100,000 in Prizes Posted for New Flying Records

San Francisco, May 27 (A.P.).—With prizes totalling more than $100,000 offered for long distance flights over continent and ocean, adventurous aviators now may choose from at least five events of the kind during the next few months.

The date for prize offers and proposed flights are:

$35,000 offered by James Dole, Honolulu, for a non-stop flight from the Pacific Coast to Honolulu—$25,000 for the first and $10,000 for the second aviator to make the hop.

$25,000 offered by William K. Easterwood, Dallas, Tex., capitalist, for the first to fly from Dallas to Hong Kong, 10,000 miles.

$33,000 offered by the business men of Spokane, Wash., for a series of races between New York and Spokane. This race is sponsored by the National Aeronautical Association.

$30,000 by Sid Grauman, Hollywood, for the first to fly from Los Angeles to Tokyo, 5,000 miles.

PINEDO TO FIX PLANE, FLY ON

Rome, May 27 (A.P.).—Commander De Pinedo is due today at Horta, Azores islands, according to wireless from the steamer Duilio. The message gave no details except that the Italian four-continent flier and his two companions are safe and were taken on board the Superga.

High winds caused Pinedo to fall in his hop Monday from Trepassey, Newfoundland, to the Azores, said a message from Horta to the semi-official Stefani News Agency.

Pinedo will complete his four-continent voyage according to the Stefani message, after his plane, the Santa Maria II, is repaired.

LINDY WINS AIR 'BATTLE' WITH FRENCH ACE

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT
International News Service Correspondent.

Le Bourget, France, May 27.—French admiration for courage and daring is unsurpassed, and if Captain Charles A. Lindbergh had not been a hero prior to today he would have established himself on a pedestal with the aviation experts here today when he took his early morning hop over Paris.

He later defeated France's greatest combat flier in an impromptu sham battle in the air.

French aviators who watched Lindbergh zoom, loop and side-slip gazed with amazement, and perhaps some of them were actually a bit frightened, for they realized that the world's hero of the day was actually flirting with death in a plane he had never flown before.

MAKES DARING LANDING.

Captain Pelletier D'Oisy watched the flight and declared Lindbergh to be one of the best acrobatic fliers France has ever seen.

Major Weiss revealed that it was only because of the insistence of the colonel in command of the field that Lindbergh attached a parachute when he took his flight this morning.

"When he finally started to come down he did what we French call a 'porte de vitesse' landing, with the tail of the plane landing first instead of the nose," said the major. "It is the most dangerous landing possible, but he did it perfectly. I looked at the colonel and he was white as a sheet when he saw Lindbergh doing this landing.

BEATS FRENCH AIR "ACE."

"Lindbergh's mock air battle with Sergeant De Troyat was the most extraordinary thing I ever saw," continued Major Weiss. "I saw the colonel was so frightened that I ordered they be signalled to come down. De Troyat finally understood the signal and came down, but Lindbergh remained in the air longer."

"It was good to be in the air again," was Lindbergh's comment.

"I am supposed to be the best com-

All in the Life of Lindy

LONDON (I.N.S.)—Arrangements for the visit of Captain Charles A. Lindbergh in London are being made today by the American Embassy. Lindbergh is expected to arrive here Sunday and remain until June 2, when he will probably return to Paris, unless he decides to make a trip to Stockholm, accepting an invitation from the King of Sweden.

PARIS (I.N.S.)—Captain Charles A. Lindbergh's thoughts are already turning toward home. He told friends today that he has not seen as much of Europe as he wanted to see, but is getting a little bit homesick.

ATLANTIC CITY (A.P.).—Dr. Theodore T. Stone of Chicago asserted that the nervous strain of a thirty-three-hour continuous airplane journey would have a more or less disastrous effect upon anyone who had many responsibilities, but on Lindbergh, whose interests were centred on one thing only, there was no apparent strain.

BUCHAREST (A.P.)—How proud Mrs. Lindbergh must be of her wonderful son," exclaimed Queen Marie.

PARIS (A.P.).—Lindbergh's shoulders are just a bit stooped and therefore he is hard to fit in that perfect manner demanded by Paris. His tailor was not altogether satisfied with the hang of his evening clothes, as between yesterday's receptions, he managed to give the distinguished client another fitting. Last night the aviator appeared in his new outfit and there wasn't the sign of a wrinkle.

NEW YORK (A.P.)—There seems to be quite a desire to have the boy hero keep to terra firma. Railroad executives have offered him the use of a special train and a company at Syracuse has presented him an automobile.

but pilot at Le Bourget, but Lindbergh is better than I am," said Sergeant De Troyat. "He conquered me in the mock battle. He did everything that we know and more."

'LINDY'S' SKILL IN NAVIGATING STUNS NAVY

Newport, R. I., May 27 (A.P.).—Captain Charles Lindbergh's New York-to-Paris flight was heralded today as evidence that the navy has been awake to the needs of aviation by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur in a graduating address of the Naval War College here. Admiral Pratt is president of the college.

After expressing admiration for Lindbergh, Secretary Wilbur declared that to the navigator the most striking feature of the flight was the navigational skill involved.

"That a landsman was able to make his way from New York to Paris through darkness and storm with no other nautical instrument than an improved magnetic compass is little short of miraculous," he said.

"His skill astounds us, but from the standpoint of national defense and development of aviation the perfect performance of the engine in all the vicissitudes from San Diego to Paris is the most significant.

"Given a properly constructed plane, an adequate supply of fuel and a skilful aviator, success and safety depend almost entirely upon the reliability of the engine. That the air-cooled engine used by Lindbergh was developed by the manufacturer with the financial and engineering co-operation of the navy is sufficient evidence that the navy has been striving for success in aviation and is ambitious to expand the capabilities of aircraft."

"Lindy" to Receive the "Order of Leopold"

Brussels, Belgium, May 27 (A.P.).—Captain Lindbergh will be decorated with the Order of Leopold when he is received at the palace tomorrow by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth after his flight here from Paris, it was officially announced today.

Lindbergh will be met at the landing field by Premier Jaspar and James Dunn, American charge d'affaires.

HIGH TRIBUTE IS PAID 'SKY VIKING'S' PATRIOTIC WORDS

"The outstanding exemplar of all the qualities in the American character," was the designation given Captain Charles A. Lindbergh today by one of the many Hub commentators on his declaration of Americanism made in Paris and quoted throughout the world.

The youth who conquered wind, sea and sky, in his epochal flight from New York to Paris with but a single-motored airplane, told Parisians who questioned him as to his speech, nativity and ancestry:

"I don't speak Swedish and I don't speak French and I don't speak anything but American. My father was born in Sweden, but my mother was born in America. Perhaps she has a French strain somewhere in her ancestry. All the better, and I am proud of it. But, for myself, I never gave it a single thought. I feel American, I am American, I talk and think American."

These are some of the countless responses from Greater Bostonians to the simple utterance of Americanism by "Lindy":

WILLIAM S. YOUNGMAN, State Treasurer—Lindbergh's reply to the nativity question is typical of the man. Like many other Americans youths in whose veins course the blood of several nationalities, he is undoubtedly proud of his forbears, since he bears a Scandinavian name, this must be particularly true of his adventurous spirited Viking ancestry. But he is of the last analysis an American, and a pattern for American boys, whatever their descent, to follow.

CHARLES M. HERLIHY, state supervisor of adult allen education and member of the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion—"I am an American," says Lindbergh, the outstanding exemplar of all the qualities in the American character. Resoluteness, modesty, and the will to achieve for the sake of principle alone—these are the proofs that our "World Ambassador" presents to justify his claim to the title "American."

WILLIAM H. O'BRIEN, Chief of Telephone & Telegraph Division, State Department Public Utilities: No nation since time began has a grander or more sublime history than ours. The bravest and most liberty-loving people from out the motherland of Europe laid the foundation of this republic. So when tyranny followed them they resisted not as Englishmen, Frenchmen or Irishmen, but as Americans, all standing together. We owe much to the countries whence they came but the spirit of liberty breathed into the Declaration of Independence was the American spirit native to American soil and borrowed from no other place. The glory of the achievement of this wonderful young American is great enough to include the whole world and to exemplify, at least for once, the ideal of universal brotherhood in something beside theory.

THEODORE A. GLYNN, Former Fire Commissioner—An American of the highest type as were all American heroes regardless of the birthplace of their ancestors. A universal brotherhood is something beside theory.

MAJOR CHARLES T. HARDING, Street Commissioner—Another instance of a real American, nothing less of the home of his fathers, typified in true heroism, valor and modesty.

CITY COUNCILLOR MICHAEL J. WARD—Another indication of the melting pot and in this instance a crystallization of a true American heart.

DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, Health Commissioner—A creed such as enunciated in Capt. Lindbergh's speech is typically American. If all inhabitants of this country emulated Captain Lindbergh in his Americanism, this country would be safe from the many isms which are parasitical to its growth.

CITY COUNCILLOR HORACE GUILD—He is voicing the ideals of millions of plain Americans, who are not too deeply concerned about what their ancestors may or may not have been. He speaks for Americans who are living for the present and for the future—trying to do their best and to earn universal respect for themselves, without reference to what may have gone before.

EX-MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY—If every individual enjoying the benefits that accrue through American citizenship would feel and act as Charles Lindbergh has expressed himself as feeling and acting, overnight an American spirit would be born that would result in greater cooperation in the solving of problems that are common to the people of a nation like the one in which we live, whose citizenship is recruited from every race, creed and class and whose future happiness, unity and success are only possible through American spirit.

CARROLL J. SWAN, president T. D. Club of Boston—I was delighted to see the way the American played up the wonderful statement of Charlie Lindbergh being 100 per cent. American. To us who were fortunate enough to serve the colors during the World War, this statement is about the finest of all the fine statements that this great hero of ours has made. So many newspapers have played him up as of another nationality that we are all delighted to see him come right out, flat-footed and show the world that he is a Simon-pure Americanism.

W. W. LUFKIN, Collector of the Port of Boston—Captain Lindbergh's brief speech is typical of every single thing he has done since he came into the limelight at the beginning of his flight. He not only talks like an American, but, more important, performs like one.

MAYOR JOHN E. WALSH of Revere—Captain Lindbergh's declaration of his Americanism certainly rings true to the temper of his greatness. His country is the proudest of him for his boasted pride in her.

MAYOR JOHN J. WHALEN of Chelsea—An exemplar of American youth at its best is Lindbergh, no less in his eloquent exhortation to pure patriotism than in his history-making hop over the ocean. Chelsea's citizens certainly are the prouder of him for his declaration of Americanism.

Hub Vets Ask Lindy to Drop Flowers on Belleau Dead

The 101st Infantry Veterans' Association has sent a cable to Captain Lindbergh requesting him to fly over Belleau Cemetery and drop flowers on the graves of those who fell there.

Albert Benard, president of the association filed the cable and said today he hoped the daring aviator would find time to make the flight in memory of the departed heroes.

FIN. COM. PROBE OF 2-JOB MEN

Water meter readers employed by the city in the water income division were summoned today before the Finance Commission.

The commission is understood to be investigating relative to "two-job" men employed by the city and others, following the serving of an ultimatum yesterday on two such men who work nights in the Federal postal service and daytimes as meter readers.

When asked to comment on the reported investigation, Mayor Nichols said:

"The Finance Commission can find more inconsequential stuff to investigate than any other body I ever heard of, all of which tends to slow up the city's activities."

I. A. RATSHESKY DIES SUDDENLY IN HOSPITAL

I. A. Ratshesky of No. 317 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, treasurer of the United States Trust Company, died suddenly today at the Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital.

He is survived by his widow, who was Therese E. Shuman, daughter of A. Shuman, two daughters, Mrs. Joseph L. Hyman of San Francisco, formerly Vera S. Ratshesky, and Hetty Lane Ratshesky of Boston; three brothers, A. C. Ratshesky and Harry F. Ratshesky, both of Boston, and Max A. Ratshesky of Cleveland, O., and two sisters, Reba R. Morse and Marion R. Ehrlich, both of Brookline.

Funeral services will be held at his home, Sunday, at 2 p. m. Burial will be private.

Mr. Ratshesky, son of Asher and Bertha Ratshesky, was born in Boston, February 23, 1863, and was educated in Boston schools. He made his Winter home here and had his Summer home at No. 251 Puritan road, Swampscott.

Mr. Ratshesky had been treasurer of the trust company since its inception, March 4, 1895. He was well known in business circles and had been treasurer of the A. C. Ratshesky Charity Foundation.

EXTRAVAGANCE ROW IN CHURCH CONVENTION

San Francisco, May 27 (A.P.)—Dissension on the program of church expenditures was deemed probable today as the 139th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. reached its second day.

It was expected the faction headed by the Rev. Herman Arndt, of Montgomery, O., would reiterate charges of extravagance by the national board when the standing committee of finances submitted its report.

Rev. Mr. Arndt asked a change in the form of organization as a means of eliminating an alleged annual waste of $100,000, which he charged was incurred partly through the appointment of twenty-five "deadhead" secretaries.

Increasing use of paid advertising in newspapers on the part of Presbyterian churches throughout the country was reported by Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, presenting the annual report of the publicity department.

3 INJURED IN TRUCK CRASH

Three men were injured when a Beverly express company's truck crashed into a coach at the corner of the International highway and Broadway, Revere, today.

Riding on the truck were Edward Morgan of No. 67 Hill street, Revere, and Alton Lewis of No. 44 Pleasant street, Beverly. The coach was driven by John J. Hurley of Revere. Lewis and Morgan were taken to Lynn Hospital for treatment. Hurley escaped with a cut above the right eye.

HENRY GASSAWAY DAVIS ACCUSED BY FATHER

Washington, May 27 (A.P.)—John T. Davis of West Virginia, son of Henry Gassaway Davis, one-time Democratic vice-presidential candidate, filed suit here today to purge a deed in trust which he claims was executed when he was not in condition by reason of illness to know its real purport.

The suit is against his son, Henry Gassaway Davis, 3d, his daughter, Hallie Davis Percy, his grandson, George Almy Percy, Jr., and the National Savings & Trust Company. Davis alleges the deed was arranged by his son and that instead of transferring his property, valued at more than $1,000,000, to the trust company to manage temporarily, the terms of the instrument were irrevocable and undertook to carry the property to his children.

MARINE KILLS REBEL GENERAL

Chinandega, Nicaragua, May 27 (A.P.)—Captain William P. Richards of the United States Marine Corps shot and killed the Liberal General Cabulla here today, allegedly in self-defense.

General Cabulla is declared to have been drunk and firing with a revolver at people in the street when Captain Richards returned the fire, killing him.

Managua dispatches on May 11 said a band of former troops, under General Cabulla, who refused himself a liberal, but who was described by the Liberals as a bandit, had entered the outskirts of Chinandega, killing a half dozen natives, wounding a number and engaging in an orgy of plundering. They fled before the arrival of marines.

Dispatches three days later said Cabulla, with 800 men, was still looting out near Chinandega. On May 16 it was reported Cabulla intended going to Managua to confer with Liberal General Moncada about disarming his forces under the agreement between General Moncada and Henry L. Stimson, the personal representative of President Coolidge.

LIST 1200 LYNN JAY-WALKERS

Lynn police took the names of 1,200 jay walkers in the first twenty-four hours after Mayor Bauer's declaration of war against pedestrians who fail to observe street signal lights, but of this number only two were brought to court today.

John R. Okike, nineteen, of Marianna street, was fined $10 after he pleaded guilty. Patrolman Edward Morrissey testified that Okike argued about giving his name.

The second defendant, Arthur A. Hathaway of Boston street, pleaded not guilty but he was found guilty by Judge Reeve, who placed the case on file.

Flock of Maine Ducks Headed for Zoo at Franklin Park

A consignment of ducks is now en route from Bangor, Me., to the Franklin Park Zoo, the ducks coming as a present to the city of Boston from Mrs. Rose Severance of Bangor. Mrs. Severance recently wrote Mayor Nichols offering to give the ducks to the city. The offer was accepted. The ducks will be placed in the pen of several hundred water-fowl that Boston maintains at the zoo.

HOLYOKE CLERIC TAKES A RAP AT 'ELMER GANTRY'

Omaha, Neb., May 27 (A.P.)—The committee on evangelism of the National Council of the Congregational Church today submitted a proposal that a "beginners' book in religion" be provided for answering the question, "what is religion in its most elementary expression?"

Appointment of a committee of seven to study means of emphasizing the highest Christian ministerial standards, and to report on means of establishing and maintaining church standards, was introduced by the Rev. E. B. Robinson of Holyoke, Mass., who said:

"My resolution is not prompted by Sinclair Lewis' Elmer Gantry. There are a few cases where clergymen, morally unfit, have been admitted to the pulpit and this prompted my action.

"In various States and counties there are different standards. A clergyman may be admitted to the pulpit by one church, whereas he could not occupy a pulpit in another because of his academic standards."

TELLS HOW SHE GOT $100,000 FOR DAVID

St. Joseph, Mich., May 27 (I.N.S.)—Mrs. Esther Johnson Hansford Hansel, 36, "King" Benjamin Purnell's erstwhile chief girl lieutenant, today testified how as a girl of 14 she went to England and induced a woman with $100,000 to turn over her fortune to the House of David and become a member of the colony.

Testifying as the State's star witness in its suit to dissolve the cult as an immoral and fraudulent institution, Mrs. Hansel declared "King" Ben while posing as Jehovah "cast devils" out of her when she was sick and later attacked her when she was 14 under the guise of the rites of the covenant.

"Queen" Mary Purnell, wife of the aged leader of the cult, glared angrily at the witness.

Mrs. Hansel testified Ben told her when she went to England to weed out those applicants seeking admittance to his cult and concentrate on Mrs. Lizzie Tomlinson, who had $100,000.

"I did, and I brought Mrs. Tomlinson back to America with a bank draft for the $100,000," said Mrs. Hansel.

"Then Ben wired me to deposit the draft in a New York bank and come on here. I did."

BEGIN WAR FOR RADIO CHANGES

Washington, May 27 (I.N.S.)—War to the finish—probably to the United States Supreme Court—started today for possession of the choicest radio wave channels.

With the opening of public hearings before the Federal Radio Commission, through which Station WJAZ, Zenith Radio Corporation of Chicago, hopes to establish a claim to a better frequency than was granted, will start a long series of demands from broadcasters in many sections of the United States for more desirable allocations.

Most of the broadcasters are fighting to get out of the high frequencies or low wave lengths. Three other hearings involving New York and Newark, N. J., stations have been set for next week.

As the result of letters to all station owners from Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, chairman of the commission, inviting protests should broadcasters feel that they have not been granted satisfactory frequencies, it appeared that the remainder of the Summer would be taken up with their complaints.

FATHER WILL LOSE JOB OF WINDING THE CLOCK

Winding a clock promises to become a lost art, if a display at the Edison Shop on Boylston street is a correct indication of what the future holds as regards timepieces.

Small mantel time pieces, great Grandfather clocks, clocks for the office and clocks for the home are on display and all are regulated and automatically set by electricity.

The display indicates that in the future the housewife or the business man will have to give no more attention to his clock than he gives to his electric refrigerator or his electrically operated, oil-burning furnace.

All the clocks are accurately timed by the U. S. Observatory time, which is sent out from the government wireless station at Arlington, Va.

TOW MALOLO TO NEW YORK

New York, May 27 (A.P.)—The new giant Matson liner Malolo, helpless as a child in a storm on the first day of her trial cruise, today was being towed to New York by land.

The $7,000,000 queen of the merchant marine, with upon her 350 persons aboard, limped on her maiden journey to port under escort of coast guard destroyers after a distress call to neighboring vessels to stand by. Her engines and three screws failed when about 400 miles off the coast of Virginia.

A radio message was received from the liner, and the Matson line was notified that the Malolo was in tow with the Norwegian freighter Jacob Christensen in a heavy fog Wednesday, 15 miles off Ambrose Lightship.

And in Regal Sport Shoes you can indulge in a little Luxury without paying a Luxury Tax, because all Styles and all Leathers, Rubber Soles and Leather Soles, are All One Price—$6.60.

"LADDIE"
This stylish, serviceable, sport model made of genuine Tan Elk, with a saddle pattern that laces snugly over the instep and steadies your stance. It has brass eyelets and the famous "Flatwalk" cleated rubber sole and heel. It makes a good, safe sidewalk, feel as soft and springy as a putting green.

"KILTIE"
This is a regular Russia Calf Oxford with genuine springy crepe rubber sole, and is worn with or without the fancy fringed tongue. Without this additional decoration it's a regular rubber sole lace oxford, which is worn both in the city and the country, and with the fancy fringed tongue it's a duplicate of a $15 custom golf shoe, but we only charge 50c extra for the [illegible]-L" fringed tongue.

"COUNTRY CLUB"
This shoe is one of the most popular Regal Sport Models. It is built on the Varsity Last, with a rubber golf sole and nickel eyelets. You have your choice of a variety of attractive leather combinations. 4005 has Russia Calf tip, vamp and quarter contrasted with a tan Elk Saddle and Ballstrap. Or, if you prefer, 4215 is made in Black Calf tip, vamp and quarter with tan Elk Saddle and Ballstrap.

"STROLLER"
This striking two-tone oxford is made over the famous Eu Last, in beautiful contrasts of leathers. 4218 is a white buck shoe trimmed with Russia Calf and has a smooth red rubber sole. Or, if you want a white buck trimmed with black Kidskin Calf, ask for 4219. Both shoes are very popular and are worn at all fashionable sport gatherings during the outdoor sport season.

"MOCCASIN"
A wonderfully springy sport shoe, built of genuine Tan Elk, with a hand-sewn vamp seam. A pleasing color combination is obtained by using a cream colored Fairway cleated rubber sole and heel. This shoe is very popular with outdoor men, and is seen on Fairways, Highways and Byways from Coast to Coast.

Young Haley Has Entirely Too Much Fun According to British Golfers

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

SPORTS

Haley Gains Fame Kids Upset Golf Dope And Make Game Popular

Environment and Pie Traynor Knows Onions Sound Argument

By Nick Flatley

HALEY GAVE BOYS ACROSS A SCARE, ANYHOW

EDWIN HALEY, late of Williams, had the pleasure of giving the British golf world a real scare before he was knocked out of the title tourney. Edwin was an unknown a week ago and now he has international fame. He entered the event across the water for the fun of it as much as anything, and then proceeded to put out Tolley, one of the great golfers of the Isles.

Nick Flatley

Haley is a kid, who played golf at school, so does it naturally. He's one of the youngsters that pop up these days in almost every big tournament and snatch the laurels off the brow of some champ or other. Youth seems to care less for experience in golf than it does in other sports.

There's so much luck in the links game that anybody who gets things rolling at the start of a match has a chance against the best. That's why the pastime has such a growing appeal. Every kid dreams that he will step in to be a Sen Alok, as Francis Ouimet was back in 1913. Bobby Jones had more luck than Lindbergh has medals before he reached his majority.

Any one of a dozen kids are conceded real chances in our big open and amateur events. But the old-timers will also be present when it comes to the final showdown. Everybody has a chance. That's why the young and old march out to the first tee whenever opportunity offers.

That is why, incidentally, Boston should have more public courses, and not drag a generation or so behind the rest of the country in the matter of healthful recreation for the populace.

PIE TRAYNOR KNOWS BASEBALL IS HONEST

ENVIRONMENT, as you have been told before, is a great teacher. It was brought to mind the other evening in New York, when Pie Traynor, the Somerville hero of the Pittsburgh Pirates, stepped up to make a speech with quite a crowd looking and listening.

Pie used to be a quiet, bashful kid, whose vocabulary was principally Uh huh and Nope.

Yet he stood up and for ten minutes chattered as a unit of showing any nervous signs. He never once threw the floor and I guess he's still talking.

Pie was asked to explain why baseball has its scandals, if the game is honest, as he told those present.

"I honestly can give no answer to that one," quoth Pie. He explained that once in a while a necessary run-off with a big foul of most any but that the people still put their dough in the banks, because they trust them. The casual dishonesty did not affect the wearing of the socks.

"The same goes for baseball. Once in an age a player turns crooked. Nothing in the world is perfect. But as far as honesty goes, baseball is the closest thing to perfection there is.

Which is a sound argument when you figure it out.

Golf Notes

In conjunction with the W. G. A. finals today at Woodland, the association will hold its annual mixed foursome tournament. This is one of the most popular tournaments of the season and a large number of contesting pairs will be in action.

Mrs. F. H. Baker, Jr., and Mrs. S. D. Warman struggled to five up on the 18th, but as soon as Miss Russell got that green for the win, Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell, of the Country Club, playing her semi-finals of the Fourth Flight, put her tee shot about three feet from the pin and dropped the putt for a dormie.

It was a wonderful shot from a lie on the 18th hole that saved Miss Ruth Batchelder from defeat in her match with Miss Theresa Winsor of Weston, after being three up and only five to play. Miss Winsor, after Miss Batchelder had put her tee shot on the same hole, also put in through the green, but it was out of the question for her opponent to get a putt to halve.

HOW TO BOX
By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of six illustrated articles by Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, on "How to Box."

AFTER you have learned the correct boxing stance, the next thing is the proper way to hold the hands and arms while in sparring position.

If you will look at the illustration No. 1, which accompanies this article, you will get a good idea of [illegible] hands are to be held.

[illegible]

Furthermore, with the left held in that way, it puts you in position where you can shoot in a left hook, which is a blow that I will deal with in a later article.

Do not hold the left arm rigid in [illegible]

No one ever can succeed as a boxer who does not learn the proper way to clench the fists, the correct way to strike blows and the proper method of delivery.

And, most important of all, the thumb must be placed on the OUTSIDE of the fingers.

[illegible]

When striking a blow, do so with the first part of the fist between the [illegible] shown to the next illustration No. 5. This is the real punching surface.

A Sanctuary of Virgin Beauty Near a Famous Shrine of American Literature

PINE LAKES, so called because its many acres of pine groves border upon two beautiful lakes, Willis Lake and Crystal Lake, is situated in Sudbury, Massachusetts, near the famous Wayside Inn, about nineteen miles west of Boston.

Three centuries ago this beautiful spot was the favorite hunting and fishing grounds of Massachusetts Indians. Not far away a stone post at the bridge over the Sudbury River near the Wayland Country Club marks the spot where King Philip ambushed and massacred a body of early white settlers.

Today Pine Lakes epitomizes the very acme of peace and restful quiet. Its wealth of giant pines and white birch saplings are broken only by a network of clean wide streets, each corner carefully marked by modern sign posts pointing the way to lake drive or state highway. All around are fertile farm lands, great apple and peach orchards, grazing herds.

Thousands of motorists en route to nearby thriving cities or from Boston to New York have often gazed in rapture as they passed this beauty spot, catching a fleeting glance of silver waters glistening through the avenues of stalwart trees. Few suspected that Pine Lakes is destined to be one of New England's most prized home sections.

Adjoining this almost virgin cathedral of pines are many attractive bungalows nestling half hidden above the lake waters. Well-known sportsmen and their families come here from distant points for the excellent fishing, canoeing and bathing which is theirs for the asking.

"BABE" RUTH HOME NEAR

No less a national figure in the sporting world than "Babe" Ruth, King of Swat and Idol of Young America, here seeks rest and recreation from the diamond at a well-known fishing lodge whenever he visits Boston. Not so long ago George Herman Ruth owned a rich farm and comfortable home just across the road from Pine Lakes. The farm still bears his name and is an object of admiration for thousands.

Almost directly south from the east entrance to the property extends a friendly road which leads past a little railroad station into the grounds of famous Wayside Inn, the Little Red School House and the Old Mill eulogized by the Poet Longfellow and rescued from oblivion as a shrine for world tourists at South Sudbury by Henry Ford, America's great millionaire philanthropist.

FORD PEACH ORCHARDS

Along the Boston Post Road not far from Wayside Inn may be seen a model dairy farm and many popular inns and tea rooms. Nearby is an interesting duck farm and a famous bird sanctuary and in the distance looms Nobscot Mountain, upon whose slope are set out the priceless Ford peach orchards. Gurgling brooks, rustic bridges and busy waterfalls dot the landscape everywhere.

And yet Sudbury and Pine Lakes are but an hour's easy drive over incomparable state highways by automobile or motor bus from Boston and much nearer to other well known cities. Two railroads intersect the township, connecting it with great metropolitan centers. The wonder of Pine Lakes is that man has taken so many years to discover its inherent beauty as an ideal homesite.

An Investment With ALL the Salient Points of Safety and Potential Profit

EVERY new real estate development should be subjected to the keenest scrutiny from the standpoint of a safe and profitable investment. It should have as many salient points as possible to assure its future owners of stabilized and even increasing values.

Pine Lakes not only has all these salient values but it has in addition that rare circumstance of fortune which comes but seldom in a lifetime—proximity to the well selected real estate holdings of Henry Ford, that wizard of American industry and finance whose uncanny foresight has carried his followers on to unforeseen fortunes. Ford owns thousands of acres in Sudbury.

Pine Lakes has a natural location of beauty for homesites and accessibility to recreational pursuits. It has transportation which makes for immediate growth—many miles of state highways, railroad stations and motor coaches.

It lies just on the outskirts of a great metropolitan business market and is strategically situated midway between several thriving smaller cities reached by two different railroads.

Statistics show that during the past ten years there has been a distinct upward movement of real estate values westward from Boston. The Newtons, Wellesley, Arlington, Belmont and Weston are recent examples. The town of Sudbury and Pine Lakes are directly in this path.

FUTURE INDUSTRIAL EVIDENCES

Within the town of Sudbury but not too near Pine Lakes there are already evidences of future industrial activity of great moment. There is a surplus of cheap water power for manufacturing, ideal labor conditions, a contented community.

Reputable citizens of Sudbury believe that Henry Ford stands ready, if certain conditions are met, to build a modern factory in South Sudbury on the site of the present mill on Wash brook, which will give employment to every man and woman in this and surrounding towns. Parts of cars manufactured at Sudbury could be quickly loaded at this plant and shipped direct by railroad to Somerville or Detroit.

RIGID RESTRICTIONS HERE

As to restrictions, the Board of Directors of Pine Lakes has made two stringent rules. No amount of money will enable an undesirable individual to acquire property in the community, and permanent structures must cost at least $1000 above the land value. The lake shore is further restricted against individual ownership and is reserved for the use of the general community. Business buildings and concessions must also conform to certain standards.

Because Pine Lakes is comparatively a small restricted home development of the better class—offering but a few more than 1000 bungalow lots at $100 on an attractive extended payment plan, a price conceded to be way below their potential value—it represents an extraordinary opportunity to both home buyers and investors

Experienced buyers, who have profited before through early selection of favorable sites, are already awaiting the opening of the sale of lots at Pine Lakes at 10 A. M., Saturday, May 28 at Sudbury.

A Startling Serial Story of Love, Terror and the Night Clubs

CHAPTER 46.

Lupino did not turn his head to [re]ply Tom Ware's announcement.

May Desmond could come up through a trap door in the centre of the dining floor, if she wished to, but that doesn't settle the fact that [you] call [me] a liar," Lupino said with a slow rumble from his massive chest.

"No, you're right. That wouldn't [be] it. Tom Ware responded almost [re]ply.

"Say," Lupino declared, "by a hell of a sight! Do you want to get out of this [pl]ace and stay out, or shall I break [it] in two right now?"

Something like a sigh of relief came from Tom Ware's lips. At last, was definite—something comprehensible. A relaxation, a loosening of tension, passed through his whole body; awakened [pl]easurably, the stern of sustenance.

"I [th]ank," he said quietly. "I'll have yet break my [fa]st, I [th]ink."

The strange thing was that he was now, not in the slightest, excited. A mild curiosity began to [fl]icker in his mind, as to whether in a [ph]ysical combat with Lupino, he could hold his own. A hat [w]ould possibly offset Lupino's superior strength. Probably not. But that was relatively unimportant at the moment. His right hand left the table and moved toward the coat pocket. With a drawn automatic a man was reasonably safe from assault . . . should be able to get it without any abhorrence.

Tom Ware considered the [se]ntiments that he might [ex]press to shoot Lupino down if it was a chance they both had to [di]e.

Their eyes were fixed, immobile; [to] Ware felt himself looking coldly, with a steel intensity, in[to] dark pools of some molten, fu[ll]-flaring turbulence. The man Lupino, he decided, was thoroughly evil . . . the civilization grew upon him [th]at the staring could not continue [m]uch longer . . .

"Did you come here looking for [trou]ble?" Lupino asked. "What's the matter with you anyway, Tom?" [Sa]y, he was, after all . . . yet ov[er]whelmingly, Tom Ware could feel the [ma]ss of the man's active hostility . . . the conclusion of an affair of [ex]tremeness, the acknowledgment of absurd, hot-headed anger, [ma]ny to avoid will and common sense. Slowly expressed, this came to the surface; but the source, Tom [Ware] was in an essentials treacherous.

"Lup," he said calmly, "I think you [ha]d right as I did come here tonight, looking for trouble, Lupino."

The bigger man smiled slowly. "Been drinking?"

"No . . ."

"Well you can't get a rise out of me, big boy. I feel that way myself sometimes, but that doesn't give you the right to call me a liar because I said May Desmond was out of town. You're not yourself tonight, Tom and because I have known you a long time I'm going to overlook what you said to me—this once. But before you go out of here tonight, I'm going to straighten this little matter up with you. I'm going to have May come down here herself and tell you how she happened to put me in wrong by showing up after I could have sworn she was out of town."

"I'm glad of that," Tom told him, still boring him with eyes now steely grey. "I came here tonight to see May, and I'd be much obliged to you if you brought her over."

Lupino got to his feet. "I'll do [so]mething for you, Tom."

When he had gone it became increasingly clear to Tom Ware that Lupino had, in fact, led . . . for a purpose. Now, beyond doubt, he was on the right track—Lupino had tried to steer him away from May Desmond. Of course that fact would be concealed when the girl made her appearance at the table; even now Tom could see Lupino at the far end of the cafe, talking to her where she sat at a small table. He was, of course, arranging a story for her to tell, a business which was so far concluded.

"Here you is, Tom, herself," Lupino said, as he brought her up and Tom got to his feet till she was seated, while the proprietor reached for a third chair. "This is the little lady that almost started something between us."

Oddly, although Tom and May had never before met, none of the three sensed the omission of an introduction.

At close range, the girl looked older than she had in costume, for her dancing act with its deceptive facial make-up. She was, Tom decided, in her late twenties, but still good-looking. Her eyes, cold and hostile, stared at him boldly.

will be a third of an inch shorter, three-quarters of an inch narrower. Uncle Sam, on paper and printing, will save $3,000,000 a year.

SOME THAT like money for itself will feel they really have less money when they have smaller bills. Similarly, many felt their lives had been shortened when Pope Gregory, imposing an erroneous calendar, corrected it by taking out ten days in one year.

Protestant Germany was angry about that, and one clergyman pointed out that God had caused "violent storms over all Germany during the very ten days that the Pope had taken out."

However, Pope Gregory did good scientific work, and shortened nobody's life. Secretary Mellon will save money and shorten nobody's dollar.

RUSSIA'S Bolshevik government, highly indignant, learns that several can play at propaganda and add boycotting to it.

Russia's government, youthful and enthusiastic, believes it is a [se]em duty to convert the world to Communism. The plan, according to other governments, is to sow discontent in foreign countries to promote revolution.

It would be more tactful, and safer for Russia, if she would first prove the success of her ideas at home, then offer them abroad.

BRITAIN, having cut off diplomatic relations with Russia, starts propaganda that promises to spread. Already Canada will have nothing to do with Russia. France and Italy are expected to follow suit.

Russia's statesmen are brilliant men, but they may learn it is unwise to make many enemies at one time.

WHEN COUNT WITTE was in this country, representing Russia in the peace arrangements with Japan, he told this writer the national monopoly of vodka, the Russian drink, 40 per cent. alcohol, and 60 per cent. water, which he originated, gave a profit just big enough to pay the cost of the Russian army.

IT WOULD INTEREST Witte to know that the United States tax on cigarettes just about pays the cost of our army. Uncle Sam collected $227,000,000 in ten months this year from cigarette smokers. A full fiscal year's cigarette tax will about pay all army costs. If government could collect the tax that the public pays to bootleggers it might pay for ALL government expenses.

EARNEST representatives of the Protestant Episcopal Church declare for a change in prohibition laws, modification of the Volstead act. The country divides up interestingly on prohibition. The South, generally is in favor of it, as are ariel[ul]tural regions. Big cities of the North, especially in the East, demand modification. The Democratic party, in the North, is for revision of prohibition, and the South for no revision. The Republican party stands pat on prosperity, and things as they are. Important officials of the Catholic Church and the Protestant Episcopal Church express themselves in favor of revising the Volstead act.

The Methodist and Baptist Churches demand that it be left alone. The people may have a chance to vote on it, next year.

LINDBERGH has good ideas. An enthusiastic French lady intended to spend 150,000 francs for a cup to celebrate his flight. He accepted gratefully, and asked that the 150,000 francs be spent instead on children of French aviators who lost their lives promoting aviation. Lindbergh is a good representative of this country in Europe.

LINDBERGH, you are told, is Swedish, English and Irish. Those may be his principal blood strains, but you may be sure that he, like all others, has many other strains.

Danes, Normans, Basques and many Scandinavians left their blood in England, and it has become well mixed. The main things as regards race, is the fact that Lindbergh belongs to the tribe of eyes light in color, blue or gray.

Blue or gray-eyed men are most numerous in the world's "1,000 greatest."

DAILY SHORT STORY

JACK HOLLAND would never forget a giant cannon. Jack stared [illegible] of the funeral party [illegible] Holland [illegible] was [illegible] Jack [illegible] inquired with unspoiled eagerness [illegible] "Oh, in every home," Jack replied [illegible] "I haven't missed you for years. You let me take you to your prom, won't you?"

"I'll be glad to," a voice [illegible] "It's [illegible] Prom at [illegible]. You'll be entertained. I'll be glad to take you there. Are you traveling with a maid or any [illegible]?"

A merry young Irish echoed through the station. "I haven't traveled with a maid since I nursed a nurse. I'm one of the younger generation."

"Of course you are. I might have known," Jack approved. "I always knew you were a regular girl."

Leading Polly to his smart road car that waited in the row of parked cars near the station, Jack's head seemed up in the clouds. A chap he knew called a friendly greeting, but Jack merely nodded [illegible]. Little did that mere mortal know who sailed by Jack How [illegible] at [illegible].

"Ever been here before?" Jack inquired with startling originality.

"Never — always wanted to, though."

"What about a little spin beyond the city before I give you over to the others? There's so much I want to talk to you about."

"Adorable! I love adventure," the starry one agreed.

Jack turned his car toward the river drive.

"I know you like scenery," he explained. "I'm going to show you some pretty nifty [illegible]. There's a real [illegible]. Some day I'm going to have a home that overlooks the river."

"I'll keep up on the cliff," Jack said a bit awkwardly. "Don't you [illegible] and time you want it. My father's on [illegible] now."

Jack pointed toward a rambling English house from which a drive [illegible] downward to the river.

"Oh," gasped the girl, "you live there. Then you are a fairy prince."

"Not exactly. I'm ambitious to get into politics, and just come home [illegible]. That's what I want to talk to you about."

Polly's face lost its smile, and it's eyes grew serious.

"I wouldn't do that if I were you," advised the girl. "The life is hard, and the people are terribly critical."

"Then you don't like being a star?" The girl flushed with pleasure. "You flatter me," she smiled. "But I guess we must go now to No. 104 Belmont Drive——"

Jack wheeled his car about obediently. The number sounded familiar, but he couldn't be sure whose house it was. Then he remembered that the [illegible] lived there. Not [illegible], of course, but the president of the Chamber of Commerce, a [illegible] personage and the father of [illegible].

Mrs. Claiborne was gathering roses in the garden when the car drove up to the door. She dropped her basket and ran forward.

"Why, my dear, how dreadful that we didn't meet," she cried. "Lucky Jack was on hand. Why didn't you write?"

"I did," the girl explained. "I sent the letter to Uncle Harry's office."

"Oh, that wretch! He forgot to bring it home. Jack, where on earth did you know my niece? Clarice has never been East before."

Jack, gapping like a halfwit, couldn't have said a word if his life depended upon it, but Clarice was equal to the occasion.

"Now there are some things that aunts don't know," she smiled.

"Come, Clarice." Her aunt pursued, picking up the girl's handbag. Turning to Jack she added, "you really must come over while Clarice is visiting us, Jack."

"Clarice?" Jack stammered. "Then Polly Price is only your [illegible] name?" he asked with an awful [illegible] of [illegible].

"Polly Price? The girl looked [illegible]. "Indeed not. Mr. [illegible], of course, but the president of the Chamber of Commerce, [illegible] personage and the father of [illegible]."

"Why, Jack," Mrs. Claiborne intervened, "I thought you children knew each other . . . this is my niece, Clarice Smith from Idaho.

Jack turned a dull brick red, as he realized he had been made the target of sport. "Yes, oh, yes. I'd mistaken your niece for Polly Price, the actress," he explained.

"I'm awfully sorry you're disappointed," Clarice lisped. "You'd forgive me, won't you—it was just a little joke I couldn't resist."

"Forgive you," Jack stammered. His big smile spoke volumes and he kept wondering how he could possibly have imagined himself in love with Polly Price of the films when all the while Fate had held secretly at bay this choice of prize for his wooing.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

NOW that the warm weather is here, thousands of women all over the country are trying new schemes for getting rid of flies. A Brooklyn lady has kept them out of her parlor by sicking the dog on them.

SHE also sprinkles sugar on her husband's bald spot and as soon as a fly lights to eat the sugar she crushes it with a baseball bat.

SO far, she has worn out three bats and seven husbands.

SHE usually marries reformers because their skulls are thicker.

ONE poor fellow has been hit so often that he has to wear corn plasters on his toupee.

HE complained of a headache the other morning and his wife told him not to be so concerited.

SHE has a better idea now. She polishes his bald spot with floor wax and the flies slip off and break their necks.

SHE also catches hundreds of gnats every day by putting molasses in his beard.

SHE says a beard makes such a wonderful trap that she thinks she could commit bigamy and daisy-chain Smith Brothers.

ANOTHER woman always has two or three copies of a local newspaper lying around the house. She shakes up one or two flies while they're looking at the pictures.

SHE gets her maid to spray them with phosphorus so that she can swat them in the dark.

IT'S easy to outwit a bunch of gnats if you know more than they do.

THERE'S a lady in Cleveland who has the right idea. She usually bakes two cakes—one for the family and one for the flies.

SHE had more success with doughnuts, however, since nine times out of ten a fly will fall through the hole and fracture his skull.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

SOMETIMES I wonder if men were not infinitely better off, when women were sheltered and helpless and unsophisticated.

They may have had to work harder to "take care" of us, but they were certainly admired, adored, looked up to and luckily "misunderstood."

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing—and in the light thereof, man stands shorn of his mysterious power, "superiority," and most of his prerogatives and moral exemptions.

For instance, until a woman learns how to drive an automobile herself, she is usually impressed or thrilled at the way in which her husband handles the car. AFTER she learns, she is captious and nervous.

She can see just how crude is his technique and how reckless his system, and an occasional grinding of the gears may inspire her to some very galling and critical criticism.

Before a woman learns how to make a living for herself, she is content and grateful to receive the monthly allowance grudgingly doled out by her lord and master.

But once she has tasted the blood of a pay envelope, she becomes fussy about having to ASK for the housemoney and beg for pin-money. It irks her to be treated like an object of charity, when she knows her commercial value.

Before women went into business offices, a man used to be able to make his wife believe that he was rushed to death and "snowed under"; and that it was IMpossible to get THROUGH by six o'clock.

Now she knows just how much work the average T. H. M. does, and how much time he spends stalling, golfing, lunching, and swapping stories.

Knowledge is power—but ignorance is BLISS!

And there are still a lot of women in the world who would rather have bliss than power—and who would joyfully exchange their "independence" for a few tender kisses and a little "cherishing." If you don't believe me, ask them!

MAKING OVER A "LIFE" PARTNER

By ELLA LORING

HE thought she was just about the nicest girl he ever had seen. So stunning, so up-to-date, so well-dressed, always laughing and passing things off lightly.

Maybe most of her clothes herself, too! Could take any kind of an old dress and work it over into something that looked like a million dollars.

And how cute she was when she whipped out her vanity case and powdered her little nose, smiling at him softly over the lid!

The way she ran a lipstick over her mouth—just enough, you know to get her smile was all color and charm.

Terribly smitten, he was. He took her everywhere, proud as a prince when people stared.

He married her.

And in a couple of years he was filing an answer to her suit for divorce.

They couldn't get along, he told the judge. They quarreled all the time because she used cosmetics. Made up her face in a horrible manner, he said. Why—she'd pour her and rouge in public in a most shameless manner!

And the bills he had to pay for her lipsticks and eyebrow pencils and face lotions and such things were something terrible!

Besides, she spent time making over clothes that should have been given to sweeping, dusting, sock darning, and so on.

I don't know what the judge did about it.

But of course, His Honor never had seen the man back in the days before the marriage all aglow with delighted interest when the girl powdered and rouged in public.

He'd never heard him exclaiming with admiration about one of her made-over dresses, telling her how clever she was and encouraging her to keep it up.

The girl pleased him mightily then. But the things he had liked about the girl didn't appeal to him in his wife, so he started in to eliminate them.

It was another of those marriages, you see, where one partner sets out to make over the other.

In cases of this kind, either of two things happen: the one doing the making over succeeds and discovers eventually that the one made over isn't the person he fell in love with, but a weak and unsatisfactory echo of himself and of small consequence as a life partner, or he finds that as the girl was bent so the wife will grow, and there'll be no making over.

In either event the marriage is more than likely to be ruined. It would be a very fine thing for young folks — and not so young ones, too — to postpone the journey to the altar long enough to make sure the quality most admired in the intended will be equally admired in wife or husband.

LIFE UNBEARABLE FOR MAN WITH SORE ITCHING HANDS

Healed at last easily and quickly

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 28:—"For months all my fingers on both hands were covered with red, itching sores. They frequently gave out a watery fluid, and that, together with the terrible itching, made life almost unbearable. As my business necessitated having my hands in water a great deal, the suffering was made even worse. Doctors diagnosed my case as chronic eczema, but none of the prescribed cures helped me. Finally I began to use Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. Now, after using two jars of this Ointment I am glad to say I am rid of my skin trouble and my hands are perfectly clear."—(Signed) J. Sheiner, 477 Sackman St.

Earth's Fastest Girl

Fastest PHYSICALLY, Most Correct MORALLY

MEET MISS FUMIKO TERAO, THE FASTEST GIRL IN THE WORLD

This Japanese girl recently broke the world's record for running in the 100-metre dash at Tokio. She is, with a safe margin, the fastest girl in the world—fast in the PHYSICAL sense of swift running.

Otherwise, you may be sure that brought up as good little Japanese girls are, she is as far from fast as a Philadelphia snail, always respecting her ancestors and her good name.

We of the white race, especially the so-called Anglo-Saxon tribe, only recently emerged from barbarism, consider ourselves superior to all others. It may make us think for a moment, to look at this picture, of a wonderfully made little Japanese girl, looking like a beautiful piece of ivory carving, with a driving power in her head that makes of her the swiftest moving two-legged little female on the face of the globe.

It is useful to encounter superiority in other races—helps to cure our conceit.

The Air Mail

How Many More Lindberghs on Its Roster?

Captain Charles Lindbergh is a product of the United States Air Mail, and that is one thing NONE of us should forget.

There may be other Lindberghs in the Air Mail, waiting to surprise us just as the most popular boy in the world has done.

At first there was no explaining him, it seemed. He flew from the Pacific Coast to St. Louis and from St. Louis to New York. No one in the East had heard of him before. While other fliers were testing their machines, posing for pictures or squabbling in the courts—whiss!—he was off.

It was a day or two before we knew about his two years in the Army school at Kelley Field, his four years with the Air Mail, his 1,800 hours in the air, equal to the average aviators 15 years' experience.

"As an Air Mail flier Lindbergh was forced on three occasions to risk his life on the effectiveness of his parachute. He escaped without injury each time, though once he remained with the plane so long that he was badly jarred in landing."

Give the Air Mail SOME of the credit for "Charlie" Lindbergh—more to a courageous, clean-living father and MOST to a sensible, high-minded mother—and be sure that the service that can turn out even ONE Lindbergh is worthy of your support.

Know Your Groceries

Know Other Things, Too

If you want to make a success of your grocery business, spruce up, keep your store clean, display your merchandise attractively, be courteous, and PAY ATTENTION TO LITTLE CHILDREN.

This was some of the good advice given at Haverhill to 350 members and guests of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers' Association.

The speaker was Mr. Harry L. Myers, director of trade relations for Armour & Co.

"People demand cleanliness in the retail food store. Dust on the tops of cans or cartons disgusts the housewife, who knows that a few dust cloths and the fraction of a second would keep the stock clean.

"Some of our most successful grocers have a reputation for being the most pronounced type of 'crank' on this subject of cleanliness. Since it takes a crank to turn things, those merchants have found that the idea has turned patronage into their stores. The same rule applies to the appearance of the grocer and his employes.

"Whether the conversation is across the counter or over the telephone it should always reflect the desire to have the customer say, 'I trade at So-and-So's because they treat me so nicely and act as if they appreciate my trade.'

"This should apply to old and young alike. The importance of kindly consideration of CHILDREN is of GREAT value. One of our foremost retail grocers, with a business running up into the millions, recently said, 'If you have a child by the hand you have the heart of the mother.'"

Nothing is truer than that it is "good business" to be attentive to little people. Merchants in other lines than groceries may profit by following Mr. Myers' suggestions.

CHILDREN'S DAY IS IMPORTANT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Of all the special days and weeks set apart during the year, and there are so many of them now they overlap the calendar, it seems to me that Children's Day is one of the most important.

The child is the most vital issue of the public.

It is probably because children keep coming in from the infinite and refreshing humanity that it keeps up as well as it does.

Old people have a tendency to give up, they grow blase, they lose their enthusiasm. If it were not for the children about our knees they would yield to the forces of pessimism.

It has been said that the Chinese and other ancient nations worship their ancestors, while we in America worship our children. The two points of view represent the backward and the forward look.

Whatever plans we have and whatever struggles we make we largely owe it to the children. It is for their sake that we strive to go on.

When the fires of passion have died and other interests have cooled the children come on and hold the family together. Most men's ambitions are centred about their children.

It is a good thing that the Creator has implanted in us the instinct of mother love. It is one of the most ineradicable of the human frame.

Every right-minded man hopes for his children better things than he had himself and we doubtless struggle to make the world better for their sakes.

The problems that confront us now must be met by our children, and the institutions that are now formed must be carried on by them. They are the citizens of the future.

Children's Day is a deliberate turning of our attention to these little ones that hold our interest. It is quite fitting that one day in the year should be set apart to consider them and their welfare.

People keep young by keeping in touch with children, and whoever has lost interest in them has lost his interest in the progress of the race.

It is said that when George Francis Train grew old he quit speaking to grown people and devoted all his time to children. His theory was that children were the only people worth while.

Some day the school teacher will be properly honored and those who have charge of the training of our children and the development of their character will be duly respected.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

HEARTS

GIRLS be sure and read this.

MAYOR NICHOLS in a heart to heart talk with the various department heads in his office recently said, "You are the finest looking group of city officials ever gathered under any city administration." This must be true because DAN CUPID has already captured ninety-nine per cent. of them. There are some 17,000 city employes and some fine looking men are still single among this group, however.

CLERICAL

Two city officials have had the pleasure within the past year of seeing their sons ordained as clergymen. EDWARD W. McGLENNEN, City Registrar, witnessed the ordination of his son as a minister and recently Chairman WILLIAM P. LONG of the Park Department was present when his son was ordained as a priest at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. The son of JAMES H. DOYLE, a former alderman, was also ordained at the same time as Chairman Long's son.

LITTERATEUR

Ask "RAT" FITZ GERALD. This is often heard in the official life of Cambridge when a literary question pops up, as it sometimes will, in official life. The party referred to is RAYMOND A. FITZ GERALD, member of the Cambridge School Committee, graduate of Harvard University, who is the best literary authority in Cambridge official life. He has studied literature of all ages and times.

SEARCHING

BASIL KING, well-known novelist, who resides at No. 1 Berkeley street, Cambridge, is making his annual trip over the United States in search for material for his next literary work. Last reports from MR. KING had him in New York.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE just been talking to Mr. Alvin Johnson—

Or rather, Mr. Alvin Johnson has been allowing me to listen to him. It's plain that Alvin considers that the greatest treat which could be bestowed upon any human being.

Alvin is twenty-four. He graduated from Columbia last year and has had three stories accepted within the last six months. As a consequence he has become a Recognized Authority amongst the younger set of pen pushers—a literary Go Getter. There is nothing you can tell Alvin. In a scant twenty-four years he has pushed Socrates off the map and made Bernard Shaw do a fade-out. That's what Alvin believes and an amazing number of people agree with him.

This is the day of the Alvins—the get-wise-quick, or get-rich-quick boys. We admire their style. We want action and we don't believe in waiting for results. As a consequence we're strong for Snappy Numbers.

Somehow they always make me think of baking powder biscuits.

Baking powder biscuits are also Snappy Numbers. They're built on speedster lines, and they show a maximum result for a minimum amount of effort. If you step lively you can have a batch of biscuits browned and on the table twenty minutes from the time you begin to rub in the shortening. And they're certainly winners. As a food there's nothing lustier than a Baking Powder Biscuit—while it lasts. But there's the rub—

A baking powder biscuit is a wow if you catch it on the wing, as it were, but it's a poor bet the morning after. When it's fresh and warm you wouldn't swap it for a plum pudding. But let it cool, and it's only second hand food. The taste is gone, it grows heavy and soon is stale. You can't depend on it after the first flush of glory.

Good home made bread is different. You can't hurry the baking of good bread, such as mother made. The yeast has to grow within the dough and natural ripening process take time. If you rush it with too much warmth or too soft a mixture of dough, you're going to get a sour or flabby product that's only fit for the garbage can. But given a well kneaded, sturdy mixture, a temperate, steady warmth and plenty of time and you'll achieve something that is worthy of being called The Staff of Life.

Good bread will last for days, growing sweeter and more mellow. And its strength will stick to your ribs—like a bracer. Yet you use the same flour, the same shortening, the same milk and salt and even that you use in the transient fly-by-night baking powder biscuit. But in the one process the flour seems to have been gradually ripened to a mellow, sustaining strength, and in the other, it has just exploded.

Folks are like that, aren't they? Take our modern crop of Snappy Numbers—the Alvins and Alvinas who are hogging the spotlight of publicity—the human baking powder biscuits. They're twenty minute products, but while they last they're a hot. But—you can't depend on them. They don't stand the wear and tear. After the first warm flush of glory, they soon grow stale and soggy. After all, they're only second rate food.

But the humans who have been shaped by life's long, hard kneading—plenty of knocks—lots of waiting—when they're done they are wonderful. Something about their simple, primeval spirits feeds your own spirit and braces you for the fight. It takes time to make character.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

IT'S only on the lonely days one learns a host of things of all the much-neglected world of petals and wings; one learns about the ups and downs, the rapture and the strife that crowd into the busy hours of Redbreast and his wife. One learns about the daffodils, the plum-tree's wreath of snow, the ivy on the garden wall, the violets below. One learns about the lazy clouds that drift across the blue, upon the lovely, lonely days when worldly tasks are few. The song the little trees sing to grasses slim and green, the murmurs of the merry brook below the willows' sheen. It's only on the lonely days one learns a host of things about the throbbing, thrilling world that glows and blooms and sings.
